An urban village

With its enviable central location, sublime dining scene and eclectic mix of independent and cult luxury boutiques, Fitzrovia is one of London's most sought-after neighbourhoods.

Once the stomping ground of Virginia Woolf and George Orwell, the area's creative spirit lives on, with an eclectic blend of contemporary art galleries and concept stores to explore.

Inspiration everywhere

From your private oasis in the beating heart of the city, world-class shopping and entertainment are just around the corner.

Within minutes, you could be taking in innovative art at Rebecca Hossack Gallery, the masterpieces of The Wallace Collection, or the awe-inspiring artefacts of the British Museum.

Venture a little further and London's most prestigious retail destinations abound, from the mock-Tudor splendence of Liberty Department Store to the polished perfection of New Bond Street. Then there's Soho's inimitable nightlife, and the theatres of Shaftesbury Avenue, all a mere 15-minute walk from your door.

Space to breathe

Despite the cultural buzz surrounding it, life in this enclave of cool is serene, with the expansive green space of Regent's Park just a stone's throw from your doorstep.

Acres of green space

The Bolsover is just 600 metres from the royal Regent's Park. Spanning 410 acres, this historic green space is home to London's largest outdoor sports area, a scenic boating lake and a world-famous rose garden, as well as playing host to cultural events including Frieze Art Fair.

An ascent to the top of Primrose Hill delivers stunning skyline views of the city and provides the perfect setting for a picnic replete with Fitzrovia's finest delicacies.

A sanctuary for wellness

Between the luxurious Third Space health club, state-of-the-art training at BXR and the high-energy environment at 1Rebel, health and wellbeing are at the core of the community.

A location with academic appeal

With both the University College London and the University of Westminster within walking distance, The Bolsover provides an exceptional pied-à-terre in central London.

Other leading educational institutions in close proximity include the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art (RADA) and the School of Oriental and African Studies (SOAS).

New horizons

With a number of high-end developments in place, and the iconic Grade II-listed BT Tower set to be transformed into a luxury hotel, Fitzrovia is being reborn.

The growing allure of the area makes a residence at The Bolsover not just a lifestyle choice but a unique investment opportunity.
